

Will history be kind to France I wonder. Probably as kind as it will be to us. The French pharmaceutical industry has given the world a chemical weapon of mass destruction and Massachusetts is happily embracing it, second only to Illinois. RU-486 has no life-affirming qualities for Unborn Americans, so it is no surprise that Massachusetts (D) would deny any pharmacy the right to abstain from its distribution. Wal-Mart knuckled under. Wal-Mart could have stood its ground all the way to the Supreme Court and challenged Massachusetts (D). Future historical analysis presumes that humanity will survive the current moral insanity that has permeated America and the world at large. I wonder about that also. Evil truly is a foot and making too much head way, for humanity to survive, I think. Simple observation.
