

The Goat it is!

Recent comments coming from inside of a political party represented by the donkey have suggested that a new image is needed. The donkey is a noble animal and indeed has its moments of fame within the Bible itself. Perhaps that political party should refrain from its use since nobility is hardly that party's attribute. The most appropriate image today that this party could embrace can also be found in the Bible. It is the goat. This would truly be fitting. While the sheep listened and followed their master the goats only listened to themselves. While their masters words were in their ears and on their lips their hard hearts plotted evil. The evil continues
