

Minds and hands

Their phylacteries may not be visible but their mind set reflects accurately what would be written on their foreheads. They are against life, against God, the source of life that created them. Their works are evil and their hands are stained in blood. Filled with contempt, they ostracize those who dissent, welcoming only those supportive of their evil goal, eliminating religious opposition.

Empty shells

The most dangerous politicians are the ones who would not impose their “personal” moral view on the electorate. Since their morality is subservient to the common market of any world idea to the contrary, it is devoid of any good. They are truly empty shells, the most pitiable of all human beings and having been given power to govern they end up doing evil. So the nation becomes an empty shell of its former glory as the electorate supports more and more candidates of evil.

Amnesty

Abortionists (criminals) were granted amnesty by the Supreme Court of the United States. Religious Leaders accepted it. Otherwise 50 million exterminations would not be truth.
