

Massachusetts Church and State

Here in Massachusetts, a few faithful witnesses for life are making their presence felt. Sidewalk counselors are saving lives. Notably absent are all those politicians at the state and national level who claim to be "personally opposed to abortion". Their absence is certainly not surprising though, as their public legislative witness for abortion reflects their true innermost belief. Profess anything bravely in the privacy of your closet but the general public has the right to believe only what they see you do with their own eyes. The abortionists love Massachusetts's politicians. They especially love so-called "Catholic" politicians who have compromised their faith and subjugated it to the lure of "Rome". Even greater love must be held for so-called "Catholic" religious leaders who are indifferent to this public scandal, which makes a mockery of truly Catholic beliefs. Truly, not the faith and witness of the Church two thousand years ago. Pagan Rome was and is always a threat to our faith, not the only threat.

America's Bishops just concluded that they individually would address renegade Catholic politicians. So much for an incorrect "American Church" position which will not correct a notorious public scandal. They remain conflicted and they are regrettably not the Shepherds of the Faithful.
