

Terminally Ill.

You don't have to be a seer to see this. It's very plain if you look.

America's birth was allowed and blessed by God. America's strength has been a gift, sustained only by its adherence to God given law. America is dying, just as surely as the sun rose and set, on every other great human endeavor. America's demise will surely be allowed, its capital sin, denying its origin and source of strength. True allegiance with God, true freedom, brings peace to one's spirit and strength of perseverance. Persons responsible to God, accepting the duality of existence, are guided by spirit and not by the flesh. Absent allegiance with God, relinquishing freedom and driven purely by their most base interests, many have turned their spirits violent. The violent-spirited have always viewed every lofty endeavor of mankind as an opportunity to forward their god-less pursuits. No act was more violent, more heinous, and more self-destructive, than the decision in 1973, which eliminated lawful protection of Unborn Americans! A most fundamental law, ingrained in America's national conscience, the right to life, was trashed on the flawed altar of freedom. The violent-spirited triumphed! If America's law would not protect human life, the most innocent among us, America's law would not protect anything. God's law meant nothing after this and the violent-spirited among us would continue their relentless mission to eliminate any thing suggestive of allegiance to God and to morality. How quickly the carnage escalated! How quickly the silent, yet violent among us, became so vocal. How quickly the country polarized into those who refused to accept this travesty of justice and those who reverently embraced it with all their being. The violent-spirited were giddy with delight, now anything would eventually be tolerated, and it is coming to pass! Terminal cancer infected America's national conscience in 1973. Heading toward certain death, it is allowing the harvest of violent-spirited immorality to flourish across the land. Our collective lack of repentance will be our downfall since it must lead to complete withdrawal of the grace that has been our only sustenance. God allows enough time for repentance and then says 'enough is enough'. America is running out of time, as any child can see; simply too few witnesses to make a difference.
